It's good for you

It should be noted that when the Bucket Fillers speak in faith-based schools, we tie bucketfilling to religious education.

Another aspect of all our assemblies is to inspire children to think.

Last month, at an assembly for K-4 children in St. Thomas More Catholic School in Chapel Hill, North Carolina, I posed some questions I hoped would begin the thought process.

I explained that there are bucket fillers and bucket dippers throughout the Bible and used the Good Samaritan parable as an example.

The children's level of understanding impressed me.

They quickly picked out the bucket dippers and the bucket fillers in this well-known story. They agreed that the band of thieves who had beaten and robbed the man on the road to Jericho were bucket dippers. The children also thought the next two travelers who crossed to the other side of the road to avoid the injured man were bucket dippers.

They recognized as the story's bucket filler, the Samaritan, who stopped to bind the man's wounds, put him on his own donkey and take him to an inn to care for him.

They clearly saw how each person in the parable had chosen either a bucketfilling or bucketdipping life.

I then asked the children, "What are the two great commandments?" Hands shot up as they chorused, "Love God and Love Your Neighbor as Yourself."

"Does anyone here think they know WHY loving others is so important to God?" I asked. This time only one hand went up. It belonged to a boy in the first grade. Leaning toward me he said, "Because God knows it's good for us."

Filling people's buckets and showing love to others is good for us. This young man understands something that many adults don't realize: when you fill someone else's bucket, you fill your own.

And, it really is good for you.

Quote of the Week

The biggest disease today is not leprosy or tuberculosis, but rather the feeling of being unwanted, uncared for and deserted by everybody. The greatest evil is the lack of love and charity.— Mother Teresa
